I get lots of comments from co-workers and have created a bucket list of travel locations. Unfortunately, this year my calendar arrived in two pieces as it had broken at one of the perforated sections along the binding. Had to fix it up with some packing tape as it isn't worth the hassle of returning it for a new one. Not a complaint really, just a comment on construction. Definitely recommend to all! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Pretty good, a little underwhelmed By LBI love the concept of this calendar, but I wish some of the photography was more impressive (or maybe just printed at a higher quality)? It seems like the photography should be breathtaking in a lot of cases, but they are merely nice pictures. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Good information - great world sites By An Amateur Renaissance Man At the start of each day, we decide whether we want to visit the highlighted place. If we do, we set it aside for the future. Now, if we only had the money . . .

The million-copy-plus bestselling calendar whisks you to hundreds of fabulous destinations across the world, with Patricia Schultz author of the phenomenal 1,000 Places to See Before You Die series as your personal tour guide. Discover Ubud, Bali, known for both its ancient artistic heritage and lush, terraced rice paddies. The mineral-rich and purportedly curative hot springs of Hakone, Japan. Guanajuatos soaring, salmon-colored La Parroquia church. And the San Juan Islands a hidden gem of the Pacific Northwest. Plus, festivals, Global Intelligence quizzes, Traveler in the Know tips, and quotes: All journeys have secret destinations of which the traveler is unaware. Martin Buber
