By AdamI was really disappointed with this map. It completely lacks all of the backcountry campgrounds, even the ones that have signs posted for them by the USFS. This is especially disappointing since I have the North Cascades National Park Map from Trails Illustrated, and it overlaps with this map somewhat, and it does have the camps on it. There's no excuse for that.

By HairoilHard to find names of streams and rivers.

By JW1979This is a good map for people looking for hiking and camping trails that require forest road driving. It doesn't give mileage but does help you navigate the maze that can be the forest roads in the Mt Baker-Snoqualmie National Forest.
