Parents and children alike will be enthralled at this amazing true adventure story of a strong and determined woman. Well written and expertly illustrated, it is also a heartwarming tale of the bond that develops between an independent woman and the dog who accompanies her on this incredible journey. Not to be missed!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. so this was perfect. The story is greatBy LorabtMy seven year old daughter chose this book for a school non-fiction project. She loves dogs, strong women, and adventures, so this was perfect. The story is great, as are the illustrations! I recommend it very highly. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. This is a wonderful story of Helen Thayer's expedition. By Barry F. Penn This is a wonderful story of Helen Thayer's expedition. My seven year old granddaughter enjoys the book and was looking forward to learn how Helen made it to the North Pole. She also noted how much she liked the illustrations.

Take a trip with Helen and Charlie--to the North Pole. The adventures of Helen Thayer and her dog, Charlie, as they walk from Canada to the magnetic North Pole are exciting, perilous, and heartwarming. Perfect for the boy or girl who loves adventure and exploration.

About the Author Sally Isaacs grew up in Evansville, Indiana, and graduated from Indiana University. She served as Editorial Director of Readers Digest Educational Division before becoming a professional writer of nonfiction and educational books. She has written 50 books including American history books, biographies, and atlases for children. In 2004, her book Cattle Trails and Cowboys (Heinemann Library) won the June Franklin Naylor Award for Best Book for Children on Texas History, given by the Daughters of the Republic of Texas. Sally began her research on Helen Thayer's Arctic journey by reading Helen's book with its day-by-day accounts. She followed this with several telephone interviews with Helen. Sally is the co-founder and co-chair of the 21st Century Children's Nonfiction Conference. Iva Sasheva is a master printmaker, painter, sculptor and book illustrator. Her first exhibition at the age of 13 was followed by a number of solo and group shows in Europe and America. As an artist she has contributed her work to more than 25 feature films and collaborated with authors in the creation of several graphic novels, literary novels, and children's books.
