People who visit the Treasure Coast and then decide to stay almost always say they like the casual lifestyle best. There is a small town atmosphere, the way of life is unhurried and people are more laid back, they say. The climate is warm and the sandy beaches are unspoiled. It's less crowded. If it is true that pleasant surroundings make a person feel better, that is reason enough to want to stay on the Treasure Coast. It is one of the most naturally beautiful areas in the state. The natural beauty is enhanced by the waterways that are so prevalent. There are the ocean, rivers, lakes and numerous channels, not visible from the roads and highways, that give every county on the Treasure Coast access to the Intracoastal Waterway. Wherever people choose to live, they are never far from a view of the water. It is the sum total of this environment plus the many waterways that make the Treasure Coast so desirable. END
